It may be interesting to lovers of astronomy to know that the eminent french astronomor, M. Perrotin, is engaged in a minute study of Mars, and that his discoveries confirm those of M. Schlapprilli in every particular. It beems actually true that the langitude atripes which elrele round the planet are hodies of water, and must, necordare bodies of water, and must, according to all laws of probability, be artificial. No one ever saw of conceived a system of parallel rivers from one to two thousand miles long and straight as a plumb line. Everything is possible life of roughly and straight life of roughly and straight life of roughly and straight life of roughly life. But such straight rivers it is lamposible to recognition with the it is impossible to reconcile with the

Yet, If these bodies of water are canals, as Schiaparilli believed and Pornals ratin sees hardly to doubt, what monstroug works they must be! They are from 50 to 80 miles wide. Fancy the labor of digging such a canal, the time it must have taken, and the number of wife, whose memory, in an workmen it must have employed. The pyramids of Egypt are trilling in comparison. The Suez enual is 197 feet wide at the surface, and the Nicaragua canal is to be 160 feet; the Martial canals are 2.800 times wider. One canals nals are 2,800 times wider. Our cannis on this one-horse globe are considered long when they reach 100 miles in length. The Panama canal will be less than 60 miles long. The canals of Mars reach a length of 2,000 miles—say as far as from here to Omaha. What it trulle there must be to support such enterprisest. "There is always room at the top," true; but in order to remain when you reach there, you must have a good training. Nothing fits a young man to reach and stand at the "top" in any calling of life like a good Business Education. This age demands it. The untrained cannot expect to win in the race with the educated. The young men of our community should endeavor to complete a course at some business institution such as the Metropolitan Bustness College, 79 Madison Street. Chicago. We mention this school belleving it to be the most thorough and efficient in our country.
